Tribute to Neal Richardson

Percy "Neal" Richardson, the owner and founder of Richview Angus Farm in Morgan County, Tennessee, wasn't just a dedicated cattleman, he was a true friend to agriculture and spent more than forty years building his Angus cattle legacy in middle Tennessee. Neal spent his professional life as an architect and was a man whose life reflected purpose, generosity, and quiet determination. But beyond his career, Neal was deeply committed to building something even more meaningful—opportunities for others through education, service, and community.

Neal believed strongly in giving back. Whether through supporting local schools, encouraging young people, or investing in his community, he lived out a steady commitment to helping others grow and succeed. His actions spoke louder than words, and his influence reached far beyond anything that could be measured.

At heart, Neal was a true cattleman. In 1980, he established his Angus herd, pouring into it the same dedication and care that defined every part of his life. Through years of hard work, thoughtful breeding, and an unwavering standard of excellence, he developed a farm known for outstanding cattle and top-quality genetics. His pride in the land and livestock was evident, but it was matched by his respect for the people and relationships within the cattle industry. Neal was a faithful member of the Upper Cumberland Angus Association and a dedicated supporter of the UCAA Select Angus Sale.

More than his accomplishments, Neal will be remembered as a true friend. He had a way of making others feel valued, offering encouragement, wisdom, and kindness without expectation. His legacy lives on not only in the strength of his herd or the success of his endeavors, but in the many lives he touched along the way.

He leaves behind an example of what it means to live with integrity, to serve with humility, and to invest wholeheartedly in both people and purpose.

In 2001, Neal was instrumental in creating the UCAA Scholarship and donated the first bred heifer to start the scholarship fund. During his years as a member, board member and scholarship committee chairman, he took great pride in helping numerous college students achieve their educational goals through this scholarship. In memory of Neal, the UCAA has established a college scholarship in his name so his desire to give back will continue for many years to come.
